

Corry Poole, Vice Chair

When Corry isn't volunteering with Rowan House Society, she is a Vice President with ENMAX, an energy company in Calgary Alberta. Corry is responsible for retail market growth coupled with the end-to-end service delivery.

Corry has a winning track record of delivering with a "factor of four" to maximize financial performance. This is executed through driving growth, optimizing costs, improving the customer experience and always placing employee interests at the core.

Corry's personal profile is shaped by strong family values. Corry is an avid traveler and enjoys seeking out new adventures. She has a strong sense of devotion for the non-profit sector and spending time and volunteering within her community.

"What gives you hope?"

Corry believes that the act of leveraging the power of people coupled with a strong focus on "lifting each other up" will result in making a meaningful difference in our communities and beyond.
